

Given how hot and slow our competitor's servers are, it's no surprise their name

RHYMES WITH HELL.

THE NEW INDUSTRY STANDARD x64 SERVERS FROM SUN.

SUN x64 FACTS:	Sun Fire™ X4100	Dell PE6850
FIFTY PERCENT FASTER ¹	SPECfp_rate2000: 79.1	SPECfp_rate2000: 52.5
ONE QUARTER THE SIZE	1U	4U
ABOUT ONE THIRD THE POWER CONSUMPTION	550 watts	1470 watts
CERTIFIED FOR THE TOP 3 OSs	Solaris, Linux, Windows	Linux, Windows
LESS THAN HALF THE PRICE	$2195*	$4899*

Check out our cool new industry standard x64 servers powered by AMD Opteron™ processors. They run Solaris™ (our favorite), Windows and Linux. Visit sun.com/better.

© Sun Microsystems, Inc. All rights reserved. AMD, the AMD Arrow logo, AMD Opteron, combinations thereof, are trademarks of Advanced Micro Devices, Inc.
¹ For details on Sun Fire X4100 server's performance, visit: www.sun.com/X4100/benchmarks.html. SPEC and the benchmark name SPECfp are registered trademarks of the Standard Performance Evaluation Corporation. Competitive benchmark results reflect data published as of 08/23/05. For the latest benchmark results, visit <http://www.spec.org/>. The Sun Fire X4100 server (2x AMD Opteron processor Model 280, 16 GB, Solaris 10): SPECfp_rate2000 - 79.1. The Dell PowerEdge 6850 (4x Intel Xeon 3.33 GHz, 1 MB L2, 8 MB L3, 16 GB, MS Windows): SPECfp_rate2000 - 52.5. Sun's results were submitted to SPEC.
 * Base configuration, single CPU, NBD warranty, 1 GB RAM, no OS. Prices as tested: Sun Fire X4100 (2x 280 dual-core, 72 GB disk, 16 GB DDR1-400, Solaris 10) - $14,825; Dell PE6850 (4x 333 GHz, 36 GB disk, 16 GB dual ranked, Windows) - $33,624. Prices as of 8/22/05 using Dell Enterprise price list.